Horning Honor Man

Vincent R. Horning

Vincent R. Horning, 26, 1448 Cleveland st., was graduated from recruit training recently as honor man of his company at the U. S. Naval Training center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Horning was elected a candidate by fellow Bluejackets and selected honor man on the basis of military aptitude and progress.

Prior to joining the Navy he was employed as chief draftsman by the American Steel Foundries in Alliance.

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

MARSHAL STALIN'S declaration that Germany is "on the verge of inevitable catastrophe" is good to hear, but it would have been great if he could have told us when the catastrophe is likely to claim its own.

Actually, of course neither the astute Stalin nor anybody else can pin the things down, for there are imperceptible things only time can clarify. It isn't as easy as it was that June night in 1938 when another Nazi, Max Schmeling, hung paralyzed on the ropes in the first round at the Yankee stadium while an angry Joe Louis measured that terrible right. We at the ringside could say definitely that the German would be unconscious in another second.

We can't gauge it that close with Hitler. The Allied high command still may hope to give us a Merry Christmas, but on the other hand Winston Churchill says it's difficult to believe the European war "can be ended before Christmas or even Easter."

Stalin points out that the main problem of the moment is to "crush Hitlerite Germany in the shortest possible time," and says the "key to victory" is "to continue holding Germany between two fronts." If we want to get technical we can say we are holding the Nazi dictator on four fronts—east, west, south, and that ever changing air front with its awful striking power. The Fuehrer is in a hydraulic box.

YANKS, NAZIS ARE ENGAGED IN FIERCE DUEL

Troops Clash In Hand-To-Hand Combat In Vossenack Village

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 7.—A fierce, swaying battle raged today in the center of Vossenack, strategic town barring the American path to the Cologne plain, with doughboys holding the lower end of the mile-and-a-half long village 13 miles southeast of Aachen.

Germans and Americans were fighting hand-to-hand in a church in the heart of Vossenack, and bombers and artillery were beating at Nazis in houses in the northern section, a front dispatch declared.

A Supreme headquarters dispatch earlier said First army troops had won back the last half of the town, but front dispatches said fighting of unexcelled bitterness continued there and near the flanking towns of Hurtgen and Schmidt.

German strength also was built up around German-held Schmidt, 15 miles southeast of Aachen. Vossenack, Schmidt and Hurtgen were strongpoints of the German Roer river line barring the way to the Cologne plain.

See-Saw Battle On

To the south, American and French forces advanced two to three miles in bitter progress toward Vossenack. In Holland, a front dispatch reported capture of the ferry terminus of Wilhelmstad leaving only scattered enemy troops below the Maas river. The German high command indicated a new defense line was being established on the north bank of the Maas.

Heavy, see-saw tank and infantry fighting swirled in the flame-charred forestlands southeast of Aachen. Doughboys rewon the portions of Vossenack, 13 miles from Aachen, temporarily lost yesterday. Other Americans pushed "down" to the town of Schmidt, once in United States hands, and toward Hurtgen. The towns are strongpoints along the Roer river line before the Cologne plain.

Supreme headquarters dispatches said the Germans had rushed reserves from Arnhem in attempts to ward off the First army blows—at Aachen, for example, they were preparing for a major drive. Berlin's broadcast communique said Allied forces hitting toward the Vossenack mountain gaps had reached the west bank of the Meurthe river between Baccarat and St. Die.

French troops seized three villages in an arc east of Baccarat, closing on the Schmeck and Saales passes. Supreme headquarters said, and Americans won St. Remy, Nampelze, and La Salle, at the approaches to the Saales and Ste. Meuse passes.

First army troops near the Roer river were meeting the most bitter kind of resistance.

LEGION WILL BUY TWO THERMO-CRIBS

Purchase of two thermo-crisbs for the hospitals here was authorized by Charles H. Carey post No. 56, American Legion, at a business meeting at the Legion home last night. Over-subscription in the drive to secure funds for the project brought enough money to pay freight charges and the crisis will be ordered immediately.

Commander Lee Hollinger, George McManis, Theodore Coyne and Charles O. Snyder are members of the committee in charge.

The re-amping of the honor roll is progressing, members learned. Processing of one-third of the necessary amount of metal name strips has been completed already.

Final plans for the Armistice day banquet at 6:30 p. m. Saturday in the Memorial building were completed.

Ernest E. Beale, Joseph Schmidt, Robert Suget and William R. Shoop, World War II veterans were welcomed as new members. Shoop, 18, a veteran of the Normandy beachhead landings is the youngest member of the post.

County council will meet Friday night at East Palestine.

$2,002,200 Is Goal For Salem In War Loan Drive

Salem's quota for the Sixth War Loan drive, opening Nov. 20, will be $2,002,200. The "E" series goal alone is $451,500.

Individual quotas, including "E" bonds, is $832,800. The "E" series goal alone is $451,500.

The drive will continue through Dec. 16 with E. M. Stephenson as city chairman. The figures are 10 per cent less than the Fifth War Loan drive.

PLAN MEETING FOR TEACHERS

Salem High School Will Be Scene Of Guidance Conference Nov. 15

A guidance conference for teachers and guidance workers in Salem and surrounding towns will be held in the High school auditorium Wednesday, Nov. 15. It was announced at the board of education meeting last night.

Supt. E. S. Kerr said the conference is one of a series of similar programs being given throughout the state by the state department of education.

The afternoon session here, for Salem teachers, will be on "Planning for Guidance In Salem's Schools" and the evening session, which will include representatives from surrounding schools, will be on "The Guidance Program for Ohio's Schools."

Well known state authorities will conduct the informal discussion groups.

Supt. Kerr reported that the new trophy case at the north end of the second floor hall, donated by the graduating classes of '42 and '44, is now completed. It is identical to the large oak case at the opposite end of the hall in the High school building and cost $24.50.

The board granted the use of the High school auditorium to the Joint Parent-Teachers associations for their presentation, through the Salem Players club, of "The Christmas Carol," by Charles Dickens on Dec. 13, 14 and 15. The project is planned to raise money for the associations.

Members of the board, Supt. Kerr and Clerk George Kozt are to be speakers at a meeting of the Parent-Teacher association in the Junior High school building at 7:30 p. m. next Tuesday.

Glenn Harding, representing the Ohio Edison Co., met with the board last night and gave a detailed explanation of the rate system now being used to bill the schools for power and light. He was present at the board's request.

Here's Breakdown On Voting 4 Years Ago

(By Associated Press)

Here's the way the voters divided their 48,815,312 votes in the presidential election four years ago:

Roosevelt, Democrat	27,243,446
Willkie, Republican	22,304,755
Thomas, Socialist	99,556
Babson, Prohibition	57,812
Browder, Communist	46,251
Others	63,471

The 531 electoral votes were divided: Roosevelt 449, Willkie 82. Willkie carried Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, and Vermont.

By classes the Democrats seem to be strongest among the younger group. The Freshman home rooms returned 128 votes for Roosevelt to 79 for Dewey, while the Sophomores voted 116 to 55 Democratic. In the Junior classes, Roosevelt's vote was smaller, 100 to 61, and the Seniors narrowed the margin 78 to 56 in the President's favor.

Three States Voting On Closed Union Shop Issue

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Voters in California, Arkansas and Florida are deciding in special referenda today whether to outlaw the closed union shop within their states.

Up for decision in Nebraska is a proposed tight statewide prohibition on two liquor control issues, one to legalize municipal liquor stores and the other to limit the sale of intoxicants to establishments selling soft drinks and tobacco.

These are among the most widely watched of the many public policy and constitutional amendment referenda being held in 30 states in connection with the national election.

Don't Forget! It's Electoral Vote In Each State That Counts

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—When the election returns start rolling in tonight—if you're trying to keep tabs—remember: It's the electoral vote in each state that counts.

Technically, when you vote you vote for the so-called presidential electors chosen by a candidate's party in every state.

Each party has its own set of electors in each state. The electors of a party getting the greatest number of votes in a state vote for their party's presidential and vice presidential candidates.

They do this automatically although there is nothing in the law which says they have to. The electors of a party defeated in any state of course, don't vote at all.

This year the victorious electors will meet in their state capitals Dec. 18 and ballot for their party's candidates. Those votes, in sealed envelopes, will be sent to Washington. They will be counted here Jan. 6 in the presence of the new Congress by the president of the senate.

You May Know Tonight

You won't have to wait that long, of course, to know who wins today's election. You'll probably know tonight, but if it's very close then the final results may not be known until all the soldier-sailor ballots are counted.

The electoral system was set up by the framers of the Constitution. They thought that the voters could choose electors and that the electors would exercise their own judgment in choosing a president and vice president. It hasn't worked out that way.

The electoral system works this way:

Each state chooses presidential electors equal to the number of its members in the national house of representatives.

HELD FOR MURDER IN BABY'S DEATH

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7.—Albert Krinbring, alias Dan Thomas, 29-year-old fugitive from Apple Creek, O. State Hospital for the Feeble-Minded, was held by police today on charges of first degree murder and kidnapping in the drowning of 18-month-old Paulette Weissberg.

Krinbring was arraigned before Municipal Judge Mary B. Grossman, who ordered him held for further hearing Nov. 20. Detective Inspector Frank W. Story reported this was the first case here involving charges under the state statute corresponding to the federal "Lindbergh" law. He said the case would be presented to the county grand jury Thursday.

The baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Weissberg was found lying face down in a shallow Gordon park stream Saturday night. Detective Captain Joseph Canepa stated Krinbring confessed taking the child from her home, removing her clothes, clipping a lock of her hair and leaving her in the park.

Donations Swell School Band Uniform Fund to $1,020 Total

Donations toward purchases of new uniforms for the Salem High school band have reached $1,020 to date and further donations are in the offering, according to a report from the Salem Saddle and Polo club committee today.

Co-sponsors of the drive to raise approximately $3,000 for the uniforms, the Polo club members are working in cooperation with the Band Mothers club and have raised $1,020 in gifts.

So far the Boosters club has donated $300, manufacturers $600 and a local fraternal organization $100. Two individual gifts amounted to $20, committee members report.

Ticket sales for a benefit dance in the High school auditorium are progressing with encouraging results. Polo club officials say. The dance, to be held Nov. 24, is being held to raise funds for the project.

Early Vote Records Broken As Ohioans Jam Polling Places

Ohio Election At Glance

(By The Associated Press.)

Voting hours: 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. in Ohio's 9,306 polling places (8,363 precincts).

Estimated vote: 3,000,000, including an estimated 175,000 ballots from servicemen and women which must be received at boards of election by noon.

Contests: President, vice president, United States senator, and representatives to Congress; state legislature, governor, and a complete slate of state and county officials; non-partisan judicial offices.

Issues: Two proposed amendments to the state constitution, one to permit appointment of courts of appeals judges to temporary Supreme court vacancies, and the other to change qualifications and jurisdictions of the courts of appeals.

Weather: Increasing cloudiness and warmer.

— Nation —

(By Associated Press)

An unprecedented early and heavy turnout swamped polling places the nation over today, indicating a possible record vote of 50,000,000.

Stirred by the first wartime election since 1864, the men and women who make up America began lining up to cast their ballots even before the polls opened.

The first hours were orderly despite the warm feeling between some partisans of Franklin D. Roosevelt, 62-year-old third term in the White House, and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, 42, bidding for a first term.

New York City voting officials reported 25 per cent of the vote in by 9:30 a. m., and at most polling places 50 to 60 were standing in line.

In Pennsylvania, whose 35 electoral votes many expect may be decisive in a close election, all indications were that the total vote would equal or surpass 1940 despite the absence in the armed services of thousands of younger men and women.

F. B. R., Dewey in Final Talks

Reports from other population centers across the country, such as Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, Oklahoma City, St. Louis, Detroit and Louisville, were similar.

Brisk voting was reported from Chicago, and in Ohio the rural turnout was described as the heaviest in history.

Republican Dewey and Democrat Roosevelt, in eleven-hour messages to the country, agreed that no matter who wins the presidency, it is supremely important to a democracy at war to pile up a huge vote.

Said Dewey in his election eve broadcast from Albany:

"If everyone will vote, there can be no danger to our country. Of that I am sure—because I firmly believe in the eternal rightness of the people."

Said Roosevelt in his talk from Hyde Park:

"Our boys are counting on us to show the rest of the world that our kind of government is the best in the world—and the kind we propose to keep! And so when our people turn out at the polls tomorrow—and I sincerely hope that it will be fifty million strong—the world will respect our democracy."

Sum Up Goals

Mr. Roosevelt summed up as goals for Americans:

"To win the war and unite our fighting men with their families at the earliest moment, to see that all have honorable jobs, and to create

Noon Count 564 Short of Last Presidential Election; Equals '36 Vote

Despite a perfect break from Old Man Weather, voters in Salem today were not turning out as heavily as in the 1940 presidential balloting, when rain and chilly weather was the word.

Although the voting is considerably heavier than in the regular elections and primaries, Salem's total at noon today fell 564 votes under the mark set in 1940. A total of 2,707 votes had been cast at Salem and Perry township polling places at noon today as compared to 3,271 four years ago.

Only in one instance—at the Perry township booths—was an increase over the 1940 noon mark reported. There voters were just six over the 1940 total of 212, a factor that would indicate at least as heavy a farm vote as in the last election.

First Ward Off

The First ward showed the largest decrease in the city, polling a total of 622 at noon as compared with 879 four years ago, a decrease of 257 votes.

All the precinct totals at noon included the ballots of soldiers and absentee voters, with one exception. Precinct A of the First ward had a total of 146 ballots in the box by noon, but this did not include the soldier ballots. The number on hand there was unestimated.

Voting today paralleled the vote of 1936 almost identically. As a comparison it is interesting to note that a total of 2,627 votes had been cast at noon in 1936, just 80 short of today's figure.

A complete tally of the noon vote by precincts follows:

Pfc. Willard Pledge Wounded 4th Time, Cited for Gallantry

Wounded again in action in France, the fourth since February, Pfc. Willard Pledge, son of Joseph Pledge, 438 Franklin st., is in a base hospital in France recovering from wounds received Oct. 22.

Now promoted to sergeant and possessing the Purple Heart medal as well as the Silver Star medal for "gallantry in action," Sgt. Pledge is marking time in a hospital until he can get back in action once again.

So far the Salem soldier has been wounded twice in Italy, once on February 29 at Anzio beachhead, and again near Rome on May 26. He was shot in the back the first time and in the head the second. Just a little better than a month ago—on Sept. 10—in France, Sgt. Pledge suffered a wound in the right shoulder and was out of action for two weeks.

The War department telegram, received yesterday, said the Salem soldier "had been slightly wounded in action in France on Oct. 22." The wire said any further reports on his condition would be sent the family at once.

His address is: Sgt. Willard Pledge, Co. E, 15th Infantry, APO 3, care of postmaster, New York City.

Sergt. Vollmer Awarded Fifth Campaign Citation

Staff Sgt. George R. "Butch" Vollmer, son of Mrs. Laura Vollmer of Washington ave., has been awarded his fifth campaign star for the invasion of western Europe.

The troop carrier group of which Sgt. Vollmer is a member has received a Presidential citation for participation in the invasion of France. The Salem officer already had been cited for his work with a heavy bomber group in Libya, for the bombing of the Ploesti oil fields in Romania in the low level attack of August, 1943, which entitles him to wear the Oak Leaf cluster for the citation.

Bigger Than Our Differences

Today we vote. Across the nation, from sea to sea, from the Rio Grande and the Gulf of Mexico up to the border of Canada, we go to the polls and vote—millions of free Americans who have reached a decision to the best of their ability and are adding it to the collective judgment of a nation. This is a marvelous thing we do every four years, and it is unique. No other nation does it just this way, and it isn't likely any other nation is going to have the courage or the resources to try it.

We wouldn't dare risk it ourselves, except for one thing—the national tradition of discipline which has enabled Americans for so many years to air their differences in a national campaign, make a decision on election day and abide by the outcome. That is a national resource without duplicate anywhere. We are noted for the violence of our campaign, but no less noted for the way our political differences disappear when it is time to stand united against a common danger.

They will disappear after this election. We will close ranks behind the winner. That does not mean we forget our grievances or that we compromise with our convictions, just that we are reconciled to the importance of acting on them only when there is some legal purpose to be gained thereby. When this election is over, the nation goes on vacation until the next one, as far as election politics is concerned.

The nation has been bigger than our differences as citizens living in the nation—so far. That is one of the precious things we hope to save from the wreckage and shambles of world revolution. It has been one of the historic distinctions of the American way, our best proof that the dignity of man is not just a high-flown phrase but a fact which has been made to materialize under the blessings of liberty in this blessed land.

Judas Goating

Ordinary, unsung citizens of America are entitled to an opinion about notables who try to influence our votes by lending their names and sometimes their valued talents to political candidates.

We think these Judas goats have been Judas-goated and that when the poll takers get around to the matter it will be revealed they drive away more support than they enlist. The American public is a perverse animal about politics.

We think, moreover, that when experience has been added to zeal it will prove to be a headache in the long run for persons who depend on widespread popularity to be identified as political figures in a nation which supports a two-party system.

It has long been common knowledge that indorsements for cigars, shaving cream and wigs are bought and paid for and that the indorsers recognize no obligation to use the product they indorse. It is easy to assume that the actors, authors, ball players, crooners and what-have-you who urge the public to vote one way or against another also are under no obligation to use the product they indorse.

With full credit for sincerity where it may be a factor, obscure citizens whose indorsements wouldn't be worth a plugged nickel to anyone suspect that personal indorsements in general are worth about the same in politics, no matter who makes them.

Training Casualties

A recent news item tells of one soldier being killed and nine wounded by overhead machine gun fire during a training maneuver at Camp Croft, S. C. The loss of a soldier through accident, before he has had a chance to strike a blow at the enemy, always seems particularly poignant. But tragic as such accidents are, the use of live ammunition and other realistic devices in training has been justified by the American combat record.

It is impossible to tell precisely what a gun or machine will do in battle until it has been tried in battle. But throughout the war every item of American equipment, from clothes to bombers, has been put through the most stringent possible tests before combat use. Lessons learned in combat have been applied to later tests. The result has been increasingly superior performance and fewer costly failures, and it has been a large factor in the coming victory.

So the men who have lost their lives in deadly serious training here at home are no less heroes than the soldiers who have fallen in battle. Their contribution is not to be discounted.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, November 8.

ACCORDING to the lunar transits for this day the emphasis may be concentrated on personal, social, domestic and affectional matters, although there is much promise for all business affairs relating to these aspects of life, as well as all artistic, cultural and romantic aspirations. There is a sign of prosperity, peace, happiness and perhaps a lively celebration of these in which personal magnetism, prestige and glamor may be conspicuous and influential. Courtships, marriage and other domestic festivities are in order.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of prosperity, happiness, peace and general well being, with suitable festivities to signalize such romantic, domestic, cultural and gratifying occasions. There should be enhanced glamor and personal magnetism, in which beauty, idealism and notable good fortune are emphasized. These should not be negated by extravagance, over acting, or by certain treacherous agreements or connivances.

A child born on this day should have an artistic or romantic temperament, with much personal charm, which it may use to its disadvantage by some tricky or intriguing alliances.

Now Playing At The Capital

By James Thrasher

An Army officer attached to the Senate Military Affairs committee thinks that motion pictures might help the senators keep up with the war. Perhaps we're old-fogeyish, but we find the news a little disquieting and beset by many problems.

We are fond of both the Senate and the movies. But how will they work as a team? To begin with, where will they put the screen? In the interest of good morale and good reporting, it couldn't possibly go on the press gallery side of the chamber. And wherever it's put they're going to lose one good block of seats and create a bad angle of vision for others.

There have been times when the Senate could easily seat all its visitors in three sides of the gallery. But free movies would likely be quite a drawing card—and we don't mean to disparage the present quality of senatorial entertainment in saying so. The senators won't want to offend their constituents or the press with bad seats. So it looks as if a wholesale architectural revision would be the only solution.

This is just supposed to be a wartime measure. But would the senators want to go back to the old arrangement of sound and no pictures? And besides, senators have to stand in line to get into Washington movie houses the same as anybody else.

Once they showed signs of wanting to retain movies in the semi-privacy of the Senate chamber, you can bet that Hollywood would pounce upon them. News-reels and documentaries would give way to regular features. World premieres might take place on Capitol Hill. Hollywood would surely be lavishly persuasive, for there would be much to gain. Think of the publicity value of a Senate opening—"Colossal!" says Senator Breeze in the Congressional Record.

But world premieres would bring up another problem—seating. Lobbyists would no longer be content to stand around in lobbies. Pressure groups would press for aisle seats in return for their support. Representatives, who have a habit of dropping in on the Senate anyway, might vote to shelve the tax bill in favor of Abbott and Costello, and come over en masse.

Then there would be a problem of ethics vs. esthetics. Could a Republican fan of Bette Davis or Orson Welles publicly sanction the Senate showing of a film starring these prominent Democrats? Would Democratic senators stand for Republican Bing Crosby, even with Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour thrown in?

Yes, there would be a lot of problems and drawbacks. But Senate movies would have at least one strong recommendation. They would certainly help to make filibusters endurable.

Affections are never stolen when kept where they belong.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

The Child Nail Biter

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT is very flattering to have people ask you how to stop a child from biting its nails, as if you had the answers to such questions in your vest pocket and could cure Johnnie, or Susie, of this habit.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

When Father, Mother, Uncle Jim, Grandma and the neighbor lady had nearly driven themselves crazy for years trying by threats, tears, persuasion, appeals and everything that has ever been suggested to stop it. It seems a very little insignificant thing to balk the medical profession, but they are just about as helpless as anyone else in the presence of this habit.

In fact the only scientific inquiry into the subject known to me was made by a school teacher. He noticed early in his career when he was assigned to a grade school situated in the melting pot section of a large city that while in general the cleanliness of the hands of most of his pupils left something to be desired a few had beautiful clean fingertips. He soon found why. They were accustomed to put them in their mouths, either for sucking or nail biting purposes. Making a count of them he found that the number who did this was about 40 per cent of the class. The girls were slightly more numerous than the boys.

No improvement. Being, as he says, as naive as the next person he first asked them politely to refrain from coming so. Needless to say this made no improvement at all. He had conversations with them. None of them knew why they did it. Most of them admitted it was a bad habit, and they all wished they could stop. But they didn't.

As years went on he got a new class every year, but in spite of the fact that the pupils changed, the habit was found to be present just the same in the same proportions of new pupils.

In short, it is a habit. And "a habit is not a trifle," according to Plato Montaigne said, habit is second nature, and the Duke of Wellington saw him and raised him and said, habit is ten times nature. Since the habit is in grained in 40 per cent of children of primary school age the responsibility for stopping it rests on parents who can get it in its very incipency. It probably becomes established almost in the cradle. Psychiatrists may tell you that it is an imitation of the sucking reflex, but that doesn't help much. The fact remains it is a habit and must be broken up early if it is to be broken up early if it is to be broken up at all.

Use of Quinine. An old well-established remedy was to put quinine, or something bitter on the ends of the fingers. The school teacher to whom I have referred got the consent of most of the parents to try this and he put a saturated aqueous solution of quinine on the ends of the fingers. The children were given this treatment until they had stopped biting the nails for one week. After this period had gone by most of the pupils had been conditioned to give up the habit. But if after the third day's application was made no improvement was noted, it was found best not to persist as continuation only made the habit more stable.

The teacher was afterwards advanced to a high school and continued his studies. He found that about 30 per cent of his pupils were active nail biters, and about 35 per cent reported that they had once been bit but gave it up. In the higher grades the percentage still further decreased, so it may be assumed that with the social pressures of adult life the habit does decline almost to the vanishing point. Most of the high school pupils said they did it only under excitement. An exciting movie would start them.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. W. B.:—Some time ago you printed a prescription for a daudral lotion. I have lost the clipping and wish you would print it again. Answer: For daudral with an only scalp the following is often beneficial: Tincture of green soap (2 parts), Borax (10 parts), Bay Rum (20 parts), water (enough to make 100 parts).

J. F.:—Does rice eating result in low blood pressure?

A.:—This notion probably arises from the observation that the Chinese have been found to have lower blood pressure than other races. One of your Sacramento doctors writes that he has noted the California Chinese have low blood pressure. Most of them are from Southern China, around Canton, where rice is the staple food. But the Northern Chinese who eat soy and a more mixed diet also have low blood pressure, so it is probably a racial, hereditary trait.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. We got to the airport at about 1:30. I was tired and had a splitting headache. Several times during the afternoon I'd asked Perez to stop and had tried to get Mickey on the phone. I tried again while they were loading the baggage and they were loading the plane but she hadn't returned yet.

I don't give up easily, however. With Perez standing outside the booth I kept feeding dimes into the phone. At last, when nearly all the passengers were aboard the plane, I was told Mickey had just come in. Perez, who must have thought I had some trick up my sleeve, started banging on the door. I motioned to him to take it easy.

"Mickey," I blurted out, "I haven't much time. My plane's leaving in a couple of minutes. You'll find a note. I can't explain now. I'll write. I've been trying to get you all afternoon."

Perez was pulling the door open and I was trying to hold it shut. "Hello!" said Mickey. "Hello! What's that noise? I can't hear you. I was losing in the tug-of-war. I just managed to say, 'Good-bye, Mickey.' Before Perez pulled me out of the booth. I didn't even have time to replace the receiver which remained dangling at the end of the line. People stared as Perez hustled me through the gate and into the plane.

Boggo was waiting for me at the Newark airport and it was curious that something out of the ordinary had happened. Among the wild thoughts that flashed through my mind was one concerning Ginger. Maybe he'd found out about us. Or maybe the federal authorities had caught up with him on income tax evasion charges.

After he greeted me I immediately handed Ginger out. Walking over to the big black car, the one that looked like a hearse, he sobbed over me. A chauffeur was at the wheel and Boggo made me get in the back with him.

"Let's go to your apartment," he said. I looked at him inquiringly. He'd always preferred to have me come over to his place, so I felt vaguely uneasy about Ginger again. He sat down and handed me the speaking tube. It was I who had to give directions.

As we drove along I became more and more uncomfortable. "Income tax?" I inquired. He shook his head. "Later, later!" When we got to the Towers he dismissed the chauffeur. We walked in and the doorman saluted me and beckoned to one of the boys who came running up to get my bags.

"Let's go upstairs," said Boggo, impatiently. "Wait till I get my key." The desk clerk was surprised to see me back so soon. There was no mail and no messages, and I left him in the middle of a sentence. Boggo was nervously tapping his foot in front of the elevator.

The moment we got into the apartment he flopped in an armchair, panting for breath. "Virgil," I said, "you're killing me. What's it all about?" "Don't talk so loud!"

He made me pull up a chair beside him, took some newspaper clippings from his breast pocket and handed them to me. They were about the shooting of a racketeer, Al Simms, by one of his men, Lefty Rugg. Simms' name seemed vaguely familiar and then I remembered he was one of the thorns in Boggo's side.

I handed the clippings back. "You ought to be happy about the whole thing," he made an uncouth sound. "Happy?" "Besides, what concern is it of yours?"

He leaned forward and began speaking in a hoarse whisper. "Not only was Boggo involved in this affair but he was in it up to his neck. It was he who'd had Simms bumped off and now it was backfiring on him."

He'd been casually acquainted with Rugg who was tired of working for Simms and had offered to switch allegiance. Apparently Rugg hated his boss with all the intensity of a guy who's a bit unbalanced. He didn't think Simms was paying him enough and was anxious to sell out.

But Boggo was too smart to take in a traitor. At least he thought he was, for he made a fatal mistake. He nurtured Rugg's hatred for Simms to a point where he was ready to do anything. Then Boggo casually mentioned that if ever an accident happened to Simms he'd give the person who caused it a little reward of say 10 grand, and then he'd see about a job. The temptation to do away with a troublesome rival without becoming directly involved was something Boggo couldn't resist. But he'd reckoned without Rugg's greed, firmly believing that the killing would only take place when the set-up was perfect.

However, convinced that Boggo had undertaken to stand back of whatever he did, Rugg had let his feelings get the upper hand prematurely. A few days ago he shot Simms in cold blood, then he'd gone to Boggo. Naturally, the latter had come across with the promised cash but he'd also given Rugg hell. Didn't he know better than to pull a job without preparing an out for himself?

Rugg had then called Boggo a dirty double-crosser. He'd shot Simms because he'd told him to, and if they caught up with him, he'd drag Boggo in. A few hours later he'd been arrested and charged with the killing. He hadn't talked yet, but Boggo was certain he'd do so at the trial. It was my job to save Rugg's skin and at the same time Boggo's.

3 Wedding Anniversaries Celebrated at Damascus
DAMASCUS, Nov. 7.—An exchange of Christmas gifts and a covered dish dinner will feature the Boswell and Mill Creek club's December meeting with Mrs. Crist Martig and Mrs. Paul Martig, Dec. 17.

The group, with relatives and other friends numbering 180 was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. James Chamberlain Saturday evening in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary. They received lovely gifts, the club presenting them 25 silver dollars.

A program was presented with Edward Stratton as toastmaster. Mrs. Vivian Stout entertained with solos, a men's quartet sang. Rev. H. E. Stout and Mr. and Mrs. James Chamberlain gave short talks.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maurer and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Steer were honored by a group of neighbors Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurer.

The event observed the tenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Steer and the eleventh wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Maurer. A covered dish supper was served.

The state dining room in the White House can seat 100 guests.

Amazing results shown in improving the Looks... boosting VITALITY!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

Improper diet, overwork, undue worries, colds, the flu or other illness often impairs the stomach's digestive functions and reduces the red-blood strength.

A person who is operating on only a 70 to 75 per cent blood volume or stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60 per cent is severely handicapped. At such times Nature needs extra help to restore its balance and function properly. Undigested food places a tax on the system...insufficient blood strength is a detriment to good health.

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need.

SSS Tonic is especially designed (1) to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach and (2) to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient.

These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you eat, to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

Build Sturdy Health and Help America Win

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drug stores in 10 and 20 oz. sizes, S.S.S. Co.

Couple To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Votaw, whose 50th wedding anniversary will be Nov. 12, will celebrate the event at open house Sunday at the home, near Guilford, where they went to housekeeping in 1894.

Friends will be received from 2 to 9 p. m. Sunday, with the couple's family assisting in the celebration. A dinner for the family will be held at the home during the day.

The former Mary Catherine Kuhl and Mr. Votaw were married at the home of her parents, across the road from their present home.

A blacksmith, Mr. Votaw operates his own shop and he and his wife are active in the Winona Methodist church. He is a member of the Sons of Union Veterans of Salem and Guilford grange and takes an active part in their work. He was born March 4, 1867, in the home now occupied by his brother, Emerson, north of Guilford lake.

Mrs. Votaw, who was born Oct. 18, 1871, at Guilford, maintains their home and spends much time knitting and crocheting and is active in the Sons of Union Veterans auxiliary.

During his youth, while learning the blacksmith's trade, Mr. Votaw was employed in Louisville and on weekends walked from Louisville to Guilford to visit his family.

The couple have a daughter, Mrs. Edna Gruber of Guilford, and two sons, Clarence Votaw of R. D. Salem, and Lloyd Votaw of Salem. They also have 13 grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Plan Special Program At Emmanuel Lutheran

A special program in the Emmanuel Lutheran church auditorium at 8 p. m. Wednesday will mark the annual thank-offering service of the Daughters of Emmanuel.

Mrs. Fred Theiss, Jr., will be in charge of the program which will open with devotional service led by Mrs. Ralph Gang, Mrs. Arthur Hively, Mrs. William Holzinger, Mrs. Carl Abe, Mrs. Joseph Harrington and Mrs. Michael Bincer, Jr.

Others participating in the program will include: Medical missions, Mrs. Simon Theiss; Mexican, Mrs. Walter Yarian; New Guinea, Mrs. Rudy Linder.

OHIO VOTE

ticket either way, if the race between President Roosevelt for a fourth term, and his Republican opponent, Thomas E. Dewey, is as close as most unofficial polls have shown.

Service Votes Due
Some 175,000 Ohio men and women in military service were expected to vote on soldier ballots, due in election boxes at noon.

The total effect of soldier votes on the state's election, however, will not be known definitely, because election boards will tabulate them along with civilian ballots.

The presence of Ohio's three-term governor, John W. Bricker, on the national ticket as Republican candidate for vice president, added more-than-usual interest to the top race.

Voters also marked ballots for senator, representatives in congress, governor and other state, district and county offices, as well as non-partisan judiciary selections.

On a separate ballot, over the proposed state constitutional amendments, one to provide temporary appointment of appellate judges to supreme court vacancies, and the second to change qualifications and jurisdiction of the court of appeals.

Bricker had the last word in the Ohio campaign last night, climaxing a 31-state tour with a statewide radio address in which he predicted the election of Thomas E. Dewey as president, took a hard shot at the New Deal, and urged the election of James Garfield Stewart as governor.

Otherwise the political scene was one of resting from the most vigorous campaign in decades—and waiting for the returns.

a world peace organization which will prevent this disaster from ever coming upon us again."

Gov. Dewey likewise said "We want to make sure that this war will be the last war." He was critical again of home front measures of the Roosevelt administration and said "The great test is whether, knowing we need a new administration, we will make the change necessary to speed victory and to build the peace to come."

And thus the campaign ended, with peace-and-victory calls from both sides.

At the end, there was not even any continuance of the bitter political argument over the fact that the CIO Political Action committee has fought for the fourth term. Earlier this had brought Republican charges that the Democrats had sold out to the PAC, and Democratic contentions that the Republicans were demonstrating narrow prejudice.

A majority of today's voters may well be women — experts figure a feminine vote up to 60 per cent of the total — and the sexes are so distributed that women voters may decide the issue in 32 states with 364 electoral votes.

Other experts calculate that more than 3,400,000 of the votes will come from the Army and Navy, stationed all over the world.

The figure that if the civilian vote divides about as it did in 1940, the service vote could swing the result either way in 16 states having 235 electoral votes.

The bulk of the new Congress that takes office next January likewise is being chosen today, and some of the best known figures in public life—and some lesser known who may serve in higher places in years to come—are offering themselves to the voters.

Senators now in office who face tough opposition include Democratic Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, opposed by Republican James Park, and Sen. Wagner (D-N.Y.), author of the National Labor Relations act, whose opponent is Republican Thomas P. Curran, an associate of Gov. Dewey.

In the house, the division is so even (22 Democrats and 212 Republicans) that the personalities of the 432 races were overshadowed by mathematical possibilities. The Republicans claimed in advance a net gain of as many as 60 seats. The Democrats talked of adding at least 25 to their total.

The main state questions, of course, have to do with the governorships. Today 26 states are governed by Republicans, 22 by Democrats. Thirty-one governorships are up for election, 19 of them now held by Republicans and 12 by Democrats.

Four Unbeaten, Untied Teams Eliminated From State Race

Coach Earl Hoker Of Niles Maintains Coach Beck Of Warren Signals From Bench

By HAROLD HARRISON

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—A one-man show that just about topped anything in the state this year, a terrific coaches' argument that almost broke up the Warren-Niles game, and the bumping of three more teams from the unbeaten and untied ranks provided the Ohio High school football headlines last weekend.

Middletown, Columbus Upper Arlington and Austintown Fitch were the clubs which saw their perfect records smeared. That reduced the list of unbeaten and untied teams to around eleven.

Actually, Middletown lost little prestige by its scoreless tie with Portsmouth. Portsmouth also went into the game without a defeat but it had been tied by Ironton in one of those tilts which Ironton later had to forfeit because of using an ineligible player.

Columbus Upper Arlington took a 32 to 0 defeat from unbeaten but tied Columbus West and Austintown Fitch was blasted, 33 to 0, by Leetonia.

A full cup of bitterness overflowed during Warren's 19 to 0 victory over Niles. Midway of the first quarter, Coach Earl Hoker of Niles charged across the field to wave his finger in the face of J. I. Beck, Warren coach, and shout: "I'm telling you for the last time, no more signalling from the bench!"

Officials broke up that disturbance but at halftime Hoker threatened to withdraw his team from the game. The tilt was held up until Niles Principal Robert Sharp could pour oil on the troubled waters.

Saturday Hoker told the Warren Tribune-Chronicle that he had been advised by his scouts in advance that his boys "would be lost" unless signaling from the bench.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—There's a football team in Pocatello, Idaho, that rates a cheer if it never wins another game all season. It's called the "Pocatello Marine Devildogs" and is composed of 20-odd Marines from a guard detachment and a few sailors from the Naval ordnance plant with a coach, Corp. Ken Dolan, borrowed from an Army Air base.

These few Marines comprise nearly half the detachment and every one is a combat veteran recuperating from wounds and jungle diseases incurred overseas.

They lost their first two games because there weren't enough reserves and the men weren't well enough to play a full game.

Then they turned on the Great Falls, Mont., Air base team and won though they were outweighed 25 pounds per man. "These guys must really like to play football,"

Al De antis, Schenck, N. Y., Union-Star, "Pete Cawthon, resigned Brooklyn Tigers' coach, is quoted as saying pro football lacks warmth. And all the while we thought General Manager Tom Gally made things exceptionally hot for Pedro."

SHORTS AND SHELLS
The Army-Navy football broadcast has been sold for $25,000 which will about match the gate receipts.

What's this story that the Cardinals demanded meal money when they left the "home" dugout during the World Series and became the "visiting" club? And, come to think of it, why not?

Gene Tunney is dropping out of the Baltimore pro football setup because he longer thinks the war will last a lot longer than he believed before.

Sammy Angott, once considered too uninteresting a fighter for New York shows, is slated for his ninth main event in the Garden Friday night when he meets Jimmy McDaniel.

CRYING TOWEL LAUNDRY
Comdr. Oscar Hagberg, Navy football coach, snubbing to the New York football writers yesterday: "If we keep improving, we may get up to Army's par."

SERVICE DEPT.
Lt. Col. Wallace Wade, Duke's former coach, is General Patton's artillery officer. No wonder the Germans are being so thoroughly blasted.

The Norfolk Naval Training station's recreation department has engaged a duck blind for the use of both officers and enlisted men. Lieut. Horton Smith the golfer, has been assigned to the new athletic branch of the Army Special Services division to help organize athletic projects for overseas theaters.

Among the leading individual scorers last week were Benny Battista of Canton Township, who got three touchdowns and four extra points as his team whipped East Sparta, 35 to 0.

Engineers Trouble

Capt. Phil Tinsley, a good all-around end, intends to lead Georgia Tech to unbeaten season. Engineers pose another problem for Notre Dame in Atlanta, Nov. 25.

GAME AT MICHIGAN MAY SETTLE SOME BIG TEN QUESTIONS

Ohio State Idle In Loop This Week. But Other Game Means Lot

BY JIMMY JORDAN
CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Ohio State's Buckeyes were at the top of the Western Conference heap today and contemplated a week off from league chores, but meanwhile, there'll be some goings-on at Ann Arbor, Mich., that may have a direct bearing on the championship.

The Buckeyes entertain Clark Shaughnessy's Panthers from the University of Pittsburgh Saturday while Michigan and Illinois get together at Ann Arbor, in an important league clash.

Both the Wolverines and Illins have been beaten once—the former by Indiana and the latter by Purdue. But Illinois has beaten Indiana and Michigan has beaten Purdue. To top it off, both still have dates with the unbeaten Buckeyes.

Conference Race Hot
It is for that reason the game between the two unbeaten conference members gains in stature. The winner probably will go up against Ohio State in a battle that will decide whether the Buckeyes are to rule the roost alone, whether they will share the title, or whether they will get not even a share of it.

Both Illinois and Ohio State have six-game conference schedules. Should the Illins knock off Michigan and, later, Ohio State, the two would tie for the crown. But Michigan has a seven-game conference schedule, and by beating both Illinois and Ohio State, last year's champions could win undisputed claim to the crown.

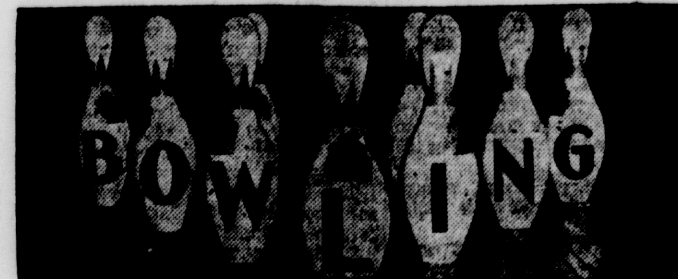

The Illini, with Claude "Buddy" Young ready to run again following injuries he suffered against Notre Dame a week ago Saturday, resumed workouts after a weekend of rest yesterday.

Meanwhile Michigan, fresh from a lopsided victory over Penn. worked on defensive tactics they hoped would corral Young & Co. Saturday.

RED CROSS PLANS NURSE RECRUITING DRIVE IN DISTRICT

An urgent call for 10,000 more nurses has been sounded by the Army, to be recruited through the Red Cross.

Mrs. Arthur Brian, local chairman for recruiting Salem women for service with the Army, has information concerning the three groups being used to augment the regular nurse corps.

The 10,000 nurses asked for by the Army are needed now, to bring the present number of 50,000 necessary to supply all battle fronts. Twenty-seven thousand Army nurses are already serving overseas and 13,000 are working here in this country.

Re-recruiting dropped in recent months, a survey shows, reaching its lowest point since Pearl Harbor during the late summer months. Of the 4,000 needed in September, only 500 were received for the Army Nurse Corps.

The acute shortage of doctors in many Army hospitals and doctors and nurses are working long, strenuous hours, caring for thousands of acute cases. Nurses are the ones who must fill in whenever there is a shortage of medical personnel. Nurse Corps officials point out that it is vitally necessary to have enough nurses overseas where instantaneous care may mean the difference between life and death.

Casualties amounting to 12,000 per week are seriously taxing the resources of overseas hospitals. Col. Florence Blanchfield, Army Nurse Corps, reports that one group of 37 helpless patients, needing constant attention, required 37 persons to care for them, including seven Army Nurses, seven senior cadets, 22 medical corpsmen and one doctor. In one tent hospital a single Army nurse had 90 casualties under her supervision.

The three groups of civilians being accepted for service in the Army Nurse Corps are: Registered Nurses—Civilian registered nurses professionally qualified for service but ineligible because of physical disabilities, overage or dependents.

Senior student nurses who have received their supervised training in Army hospitals and are awaiting registration.

Paid Red Cross Nurses Aides—Authorized in every service command to be used in ever-increasing numbers, with nurse supervision.

representatives, and its two senators. For example:

Arizona has two representatives and, like every other state, two senators. So it has four electoral votes. (Congressmen can't be electoral voters.)

New York, with 45 representatives and two senators, has 47 electoral votes, largest in the nation, and so on.

Each state is allowed one repre-

Checks Gun After Mission To Vienna

Fifteenth AAF in Italy — "She was spitting lead today!" says Corp. Wayne B. Whiteleather, 21, a B-24 gunner, of 358 W. Pershing st., Salem, Ohio, as he checks his waist gun after returning from a mission to the railroad yards at Vienna, Austria.

Before joining the Air Corps in February, 1943 Corp. Whiteleather was employed as a machinist by the Gonda Engineering Co.

representative in the national house for approximately every 300,000 people in its population. So Arizona, with 500,000 people, has two representatives. New York, with 13,500,000 people, has 45.

There are 435 representatives in Congress and 96 senators, a total of 531 congressmen. So each of the big parties, Democrat and Republican, has 531 electoral votes.

The successful candidate tonight will need a minimum of 266 electoral votes—which is just one vote more than half of the 531 total electoral votes—to win.

The War Today

which is closing to crush him. However, it takes pressure to move those sides inward and that pressure must be applied simultaneously in order to get quick results. That raises the question of (1) when the western Allies will be able to launch an offensive sufficiently strong to carry us across the Rhine, and (2) when the triumphant Red army will be able to make an all-out drive against the Vistula line which is Hitler's last strong defense short of his own border.

THEN WE MUST consider as Hitler pulls his armies back he shortens his fighting fronts and communications. Thus the strength of his defenses, since his manpower and material will go further. And the Germans clearly indicate that they are going to be no push-over. Of course the Allies also will be shortening their own fronts as they close in, but they will be lengthening their communications. Their supply problems then multiply.

Stalin says the Red army and its Allies have assumed starting positions for an offensive on the cities of Germany. As regards the western front, it looks as though the Allies would be on the move in a big way shortly. There's also another element which we mustn't overlook, and that's the powerful Russian drive through Hungary towards the Danubian gateway into Austria—only 100 miles away. This new front might hasten Hitler's downfall greatly, especially if there should be a revolt against him by Austrians—and that's a possibility.

While the imponderables make a curtain through which we can't see, it's clear that things are moving well for the Allies. Indeed, they're going so swimmingly that we might at any time get the pressure necessary to close that hydraulic box.

We shall know a lot more when we see whether the western Allies can cross the Rhine on the double quick. To my mind a quick victory depends greatly on that. Success there, coupled with continued heavy pressure on the Russian front, would bring Hitler to an early end. I believe he's likely to crack fast, once his border defenses on any front are smashed.

Women Injured In Auto Crash, One In Hospital

DAMASCUS, Nov. 7.—While Mrs. Mike Bright and daughter Grace and two women friends from Pittsburgh were enroute to Cleveland Saturday, the car in which they were riding left the road north of Edinburg and overturned twice.

One Pittsburgh woman is in the Ravensburg hospital with broken ribs and other injuries, while Mrs. Bright received injuries to her knees and bruises. The other two had only minor bruises.

The group was enroute to Cleveland to visit Mr. Bright, who is in the Cleveland Clinic. He was injured several months ago in an automobile-truck accident at Westville. He is reported improving.
